INTRODUCTION

This volume is a Supplement to the first edition of the International Directory of Population Information and Library Resources. It incorporates information received since the first edition went to press, including additional write-ups, addresses, and a few address changes. The format of the Supplement follows that of the first edition. Instructions for using the first edition, to be found in its "Introduction," still apply. Three indices--"Subject Interests of Organizations," "Geographical Interests of Organizations," and "Special Collections of Libraries"--have been omitted from the Supplement for lack of information.

A second edition of the International Directory is planned, and a complete re-survey of all Directory entries will be made. We plan to revise our questionnaire for the second edition and would welcome any suggestions you may have for its improvement.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

We wish to thank Marilyn McIntyre, formerly of the Carolina Population Center and co-editor of this Directory's first edition, for her encouragement and practical assistance in the preparation of this Supplement.

Our further thanks go to Frank Twiford, Supervisor, and John Thomas, Jr., and Benjamin Kirby, of the CPC Services Unit, who cheerfully oversaw our xeroxing needs and the mailing of the Directory.

UNITED NATIONS ECONOMIC COMMISSION FOR AFRICA (ECA)
POPULATION PROGRAMME CENTRE

P. O. Box 3001
Addis Ababa, Ethiopia

ECA

R. K. SOM, Chief, Population Programme Centre
G. G. TRAORE, Assistant Population Programme Officer

The United Nations Economic Commission for Africa was established in 1958 to foster multi-national and sub-regional economic cooperation, as a means to bring about rapid and balanced development. The Population Programme Centre was established within ECA in 1970 to do training, research, teaching, and service/fieldwork in demography and economic and social development. The Centre has a special focus on the countries of Africa, and has translating facilities available.

The Population Programme Center publishes the quarterly African Population Newsletter (English and French), which contains information on the population situation in Africa, and provides for the exchange and dissemination of information among African Governments, multi-lateral organizations, voluntary agencies, and individuals. The Centre also publishes the African Population Studies Series and a demography handbook for Africa.

The Reference Unit of the Information Service and Clearinghouse Activities of the Population Programme Centre endeavors to develop an awareness of the population situation in Africa, and to develop the exchange and dissemination of population information among African countries. The Reference Unit has a small collection of African censuses, country monographs, and African population data.

The East-West Communication Institute was founded in 1970 as one of the five Institutes established at the East-West Center to focus the Center's resources in education, research, and training on seeking solutions to common problems of East-West concern. The EWCI concentrates on the use of communication in economic and social development and on international communication. Part of its resources are devoted to training, research, and other services in the area of population/family planning information, education, and communication (IEC). Facilities for translating materials into other languages are available.

The East-West Communication Institute publishes the bi-monthly newsletter Information, Education, Communication in Population (English), which contains information on new projects, research, and publications related to the information, education, and communication aspects of population and family planning programs. Each issue of the newsletter includes a listing of newly acquired reports and other materials that are available from the Institute's Resource Materials Collection. The Institute also publishes an occasional listing of newly acquired audiovisual aids and similar materials entitled Population/Family Planning Campaign Materials Accessions List (English). Photo reproductions of most items listed can be provided upon request.

The Communication Institute's Inventory-Analysis Project publishes looseleaf reports entitled Information, Education, Communication in Population: International Assistance (English). This report series appears 12-18 times a year and offers profiles of donor agency and university research/training center services in support of population IEC. These reports, as well as the newsletter and Accessions List, are available free to key professionals involved in population IEC.

In addition, the Communication Institute has published a directory of IEC assistance: Sources and Types of Aid Available for the Information, Education, Communication Components of Population Programs, 1972; An Approach to Training in Population Communication, 1972, by Huber Ellingsworth, Terry Welden, and Florangel Rosario; and An Inventory of International Clearing House Services in Population/Family Planning, 1971, by David Radel. The Institute of Society, Ethics and the Life Sciences was founded in 1970 as a research and teaching organization. The Institute is concerned with the ethical, social, moral, and legal issues involved in behavior control, genetics, medical ethics, death and dying, and abortion and contraception, within the United States.

The Institute publishes the bi-monthly Hastings Center Report (English), a newsletter which includes both reprints and original articles on ethical, social, moral, and legal aspects of bio-medical technology. The Report is distributed to all members of the Institute. General membership rates are $15.00/year, with a $7.00/year rate for students. Library rates will be given on request.

The Library of the Institute was also established in 1970 and employs 1 full-time worker. Bibliographies are compiled at irregular intervals, and can be supplied to other libraries. The collection of 500 books and 1500 reprints and unpublished papers has a special focus on the United States. The Library receives 50 journals and newsletters and acquires approximately 100 books and 200 reprints and unpublished papers per year. The first language of the collection is English. The Library contains extensive files of materials used in Daniel Callahan's Abortion, Law, Choice and Morality and The American Population Debate, as well as files concerning ethical influences on physicians' contraceptive advice. Bibliographic and reference services are provided to libraries, organizations, students and laymen, and the Library will answer requests for information from libraries outside the United States.

The Information Service of the Institute distributes materials which the Institute has prepared, as well as making limited distribution of reprints of publications by Fellows and Associates of the Institute. Requests for information are answered as time permits.

The Center's purpose is to assist public and private sector agencies in the United States in the formation of policies which will facilitate the extension of family planning services, as well as in the development and funding of service programs. The Center's current focus is that of encouraging expansion of subsidized programs of medically supervised family planning programs for the under-privileged.

The Publications Unit of the Center publishes the bi-monthly Family Planning Digest (English) under contract to the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare's National Center for Family Planning Services. The Digest includes excerpts from over 100 journals, as well as articles from other sources, meeting notices, reports, speeches, and documents which have material relevant to family planning service delivery.

CENTER FOR MIGRATION STUDIES

Centro Studi Emigrazione (CSER)

via della Pisana 1301
00163 Rome, Italy

Giovanni Battista SACCHETTI, Director
Gian Fausto ROSOLI, Librarian

The Center for Migration Studies was established in 1963 by the Scalabrini Fathers to engage in research and teaching in economic, social and historical studies as they relate to problems of immigration and emigration. The Center focusses on migrations within the continent of Europe, and more specifically on Italy. Translation facilities are available. The Center collaborates with the Center for Migration Studies, Staten Island, New York, USA, and the Centro do Estudos Migratórios, São Paulo, Brazil.

Publications of the Center include two journals: Studi Emigrazione (Italian, with summaries in English, Spanish, French, and German), which appears quarterly at a foreign subscription cost of approximately $8.00 and contains sociological studies of migration, notes and discussions of sociological and pastoral problems of migrations, historical documentation, and reviews of articles and books; and Selezione CSER (Italian, with summaries in English, Spanish, French, and German), a monthly publication of migration news which also costs approximately $8.00 a year. In addition, the Center publishes three series of reports: Attualità, Prospettive, and Sussidi e Documentazioni. A list of publications is available from the Center.

The Library of the Center for Migration Studies was established in 1964 and employs 1 full-time and 2 part-time workers. Demographic materials make up a significant portion of its collection of 3000 books. The Library receives 400 journals and newsletters and 50 newspapers, and acquires about 200 books each year. The first language of the collection is Italian, the second French.

Among the reports published by the Center in its Sussidi e Documentazioni series is Migrazioni: Catalogo della Biblioteca CSER by L. Bertelli, G. Corcagnani, and G. F. Rosoli, published in January 1972, and available at a cost of approximately $16.00. This catalogue lists all printed non-periodical material of the CSER Library on migratory movements in their national and international aspects. In an appendix there is an Index of Authors, which includes authors of sections or articles within books.

Bibliographic and reference services are provided by the CSER Library to other libraries, organizations and individual researchers,

LUXEMBOURG MOVEMENT FOR FAMILY PLANNING

La Famille Heureuse: Mouvement Luxembourgeois pour le Planning Familial

3, avenue Pesactore
Luxembourg

M. P. MOLITOR-PEFFER, Director
Vicky SCHNEIDER, Librarian

The Luxembourg Movement for Family Planning was established in 1965 in affiliation with the International Planned Parenthood Federation. (See entry for IPPF, London.) The Movement engages in service/fieldwork in family planning.

The Luxembourg Family Planning Center Library was also established in 1965 and employs 2 full-time and 1 part-time worker. Its collection of 430 books focusses on family planning topics. The Library subscribes to 10 journals and acquires about 50 books and 20 reprints each year. The first language of the collection is French, the second German. The Family Planning Center Library provides bibliographic and reference services to other organizations and to individual students.

The Luxembourg Movement for Family Planning distributes materials prepared by French and German Family Planning Associations.

THE SIMON POPULATION TRUST

141 Newmarket Road
Cambridge CB5 8HA, England

Donn CASEY, Chairman of Trustees

In July 1972 the Simon Population Trust (see entry in first edition) began publication of the Bibliography of Family Planning and Population, a classified bi-monthly list of references compiled from world-wide research literature covering all aspects of human fertility control. This Bibliography is planned as a regular and comprehensive guide to the world's population-related literature. Each issue will consist of 30-60 pages, with 300-600 references, and will have an author index. A geographic index will cover items where countries are listed in titles. Every effort will be made to minimize time lags between publication and listing. First authors' addresses will be available for about half the references. Coverage will include administrative reports, congress proceedings, theses, and audio-visual materials, in addition to the usual journal articles and books. The annual subscription rate, which includes airmail postage outside the United Kingdom, is $18.00. Volume 1, covering the period July 1972 through June 1973, will consist of six issues plus a subject index. Single issues cost $3.00, including postage.

Photocopies of most items in the Bibliography are available through the Bibliography Service. Full details of the photocopy service are available from the Simon Population Trust.

THE FAMILY PLANNING ASSOCIATION

27-35 Mortimer Street
London W1A 4QW, England

Caspar BROOK, Director
W. SMITH, Press Secretary

The Family Planning Association was established in 1930, and is affiliated with the International Planned Parenthood Federation. (See entry for IPPF, London.) It is involved in service/fieldwork, training and mass communication/education in the wider aspects of family planning, with a special focus on the United Kingdom.

The Family Planning Association publishes the quarterly Family Planning Journal (English) which carries a range of articles on developments and ideas concerned with family planning in the United Kingdom and overseas. The Association also publishes a bi-monthly Medical Newsletter (English) designed to keep doctors and nurses up to date on current research and new developments in fertility control. In addition, the Association publishes an Annual Report, a Clinic Handbook, and a paperback handbook for teenagers entitled Learning to Live with Sex.

The Association maintains a small reference library for internal use, including a comprehensive newspaper clipping service. An increasingly large selection of material on demographic and overseas family planning topics is also maintained.

The Information Office of the Family Planning Association is run in conjunction with the Association's Press and Publicity Departments, which have a total staff of 12 persons. The Office provides information on the Association's work, population statistics, family planning statistics, and contraceptive usage.

GENERAL REGISTER OFFICE

New Register House
Edinburgh EH1 3YT, Scotland

Robert R. TAYLOR, Senior Executive Officer
W. McINTOSH, Librarian

The General Register Office of Scotland was established in 1855, and its functions include the taking of censuses of Scotland, and the production of a wide range of demographic statistics on Scotland for general publication.

The General Register Office publishes a variety of demographic and census reports. A list of these reports and further information may be obtained from Her Majesty's Stationery Office, Atlantic House, Holborn Viaduct, London, E.C.1.

The Library of the General Register Office was established in 1963 and has a staff of 2 full-time employees. The collection of general population materials focusses on Scotland, and contains 2000 books, 400 reprints, 1500 government documents, 1500 census reports, and 1500 population and health statistics reports from other countries. The Library acquires 50 books and 25 reprints each year, and subscribes to 40 journals and newsletters, and 5 newspapers. It contains a special collection of the censuses of Scotland, England, Wales, and Ireland. The

MACQUNIV

A. H. POLLARD, Head of School

The School of Economic and Financial Studies at Macquarie University was established in 1967. The School offers courses in demography at the undergraduate level and is engaged in conducting several large-scale fertility surveys in Australia. The field work for a fertility survey in Central Java, Indonesia, has recently been completed. The School's interests focus on Australia and South East Asia.

Publication of a series of Research Reports and a series of Working Papers will begin in the near future. The School of Economic and Financial Studies uses the facilities of the Macquarie University Library; the population-related portion of the collection of this Library is composed of demographic materials.
